We will be renting the Tamarrack Pines as a group again this year. At the Pines you can not have dogs in the rooms. Rooms range from $200 to $500 for the two nights. There are 5 rooms. I believe we are sold out if you want to be on a waiting list, let me know. The parking lot is small so you must be able to drop your dogs off your vehicle. There is room for tie-outs where we sled from but not in the parking lot.

For those that want dogs in their room or can't drop off the car, there are places to stay in Arnold and Angels camp. Which are 30-45 minutes drives from where we are.

Umunhum Runs

The last two months we have done Sunday morning runs. It has had an overwhelming attendance of those that don't like to camp but want to try to run their dogs. We run the dogs and have breakfast between runs. People and the dogs have enjoyed the experience.

We are currently working on the logistics of doing this a little more but probably on a basis of reservations. Ultimately the safety of the dogs is foremost and we want to keep that. We can't always run all the dogs that have attended. This is a work in progress.

Dog Sled Races

Sierra Nevada Dog Drivers puts on 3 races a year in California. There is also a mid distance race put on in Shasta and the town of Forest Hills puts on a race.

Sled races are fun to go to. You can experience how much our dogs love to run by watching them at the line, waiting to go and being held by a number of people. You can even help hold back some of the team or help them to the line.

Go to SNDD.org to get more information on the races. This year they may get postponed because of the current lack of snow....time will tell.

Miya is a beautiful 2yr old female, she loves giving endless kisses, plays with toys and pulls ropes. She doesn't get along with cats or small dogs, plays well with medium to large dogs. She doesn't pull on lead, and loves to go on car rides and walks on the beach while she chases birds. Miya is housetrained, but not crate trained. She does get along with children. You need to have husky experience.. Is miya the one for You?

Hershey is a very playful fella, he loves chasing his tail playing with ropes catching tennis balls and carrying his blanket around .Hershey likes to go on car rides, and on walks.He will pull on lead so training is needed.He is a quick learning. Hershey knows how to give his paw, sit and lay down. He does get along with medium to large dogs, but not sure about cats. Hershey is housebroken and learning how crating can be his doggie condo. All Hershey needs now is his own forever home.

Inga was rescued from the Santa Cruz shelter. She had been confiscated from a home where she had been abandoned. She is a very sweet dog who loves people and other dogs. She has some training, is good in the house and good with kids. As we get to know her we will post more or feel free to contact me.
